

Here's to the future.

GUY

It's finally my turn to plan my life and what I want it to be like after high school.

GIRL

I know. It's cool—but it's also a kind scary.

GUY

Look, you're great at math and science. Remember what the guidance counselor says: "It's all about your abilities, not your disabilities."

GIRL

Wow. You were actually paying attention!

GUY

He also said, "Dream it, plan it, do it." I liked that one.

GIRL

Me, too. I'm thinking about going into engineering or biology.

GUY

Awesome! You just need the right college.

GIRL

Already on it. Looking at schools and scholarships. What about you?

GUY

I really like working with my hands. I'm thinking about becoming a welder or an electrician.

GIRL

So you're looking at tech schools?

GUY

Actually, I'm leaning toward an apprenticeship. It'll give me a chance to learn on the job.

GIRL

This is for real.

GUY

Yep. For real. Well, here's to the future!
